- IV. PRESENTATION(S) - "Impact of Library Initiative" - Speaker: Ken Nishimoto, City of Sacramento, Budget Division Manager

Ken Nishimoto spoke to the Commission on the fiscal impact of the Library Initiative. The City Council has not made a policy decision on this issue. The initiative has not qualified for the ballot and has not been passed. In order to show the City Council some of the impacts of the initiative, these kinds of presentations are being made. Charts prepared by the Budget office were reviewed and discussed.

If the initiative is passed, the combined Community Center and General Fund TO Tax will total approximately $10.3 million on July 1, 1993. This initiative would divert $4.1 million of that TO Tax and put it into a separate Library Trust Fund. What remains during the first year is $6.2 million.

Of the money diverted to the Library Trust Fund, the libraries get approximately 50% for spending during the first year. The balance stays within the Library Trust Fund. Each year, the amount that the libraries get out of the Trust Fund goes down by 5%. So, each year, the libraries get 5% less than they received the previous year. This formula stays into effect for a ten-year period.

Because all of the money is not transferred out of the Library Trust Fund, there will be almost $48 million remaining in the Trust Fund after the ten-year period. The interest earned off of the Trust Fund is what will be transferred to the libraries. On an annual basis, the libraries will get to spend the interest earned in the Trust Fund.

When the interest, plus the amount that is transferred directly to the libraries is combined, the impact to the library's budget in July 1993 is $7.8 million.

The initiative sets the 1991-92 budget as the base funding level. There are provisions in the initiative that says the library's budget cannot be reduced unless there is a gross reduction in the City's revenues. That has not happened in the past. This means that early on, they will get additional expenditures of approximately $2 million the first year and approximately $4.3 million at the end of the ten-year period.

In its first year, the dollar amount diverted from the Arts share of the TO Tax is approximately $180,000, or 40% of the $450,000 available in 1993-94. If the position is taken where 40% of TO Tax use is what is impacted, then the above is the actual impact. In the second year, the amount will be approximately $200,000 and will continue to grow throughout the ten-year period.

To recap a ten-year total, approximately $64.5 million will be diverted from the current TO Tax uses. A portion of that will go into the Library Trust Fund. The balance will be spent by the libraries themselves.

Over a ten-year period, if the above approach is taken that 40% of the TO Tax for the Arts is diverted to the libraries, that adds up to approximately $2.7 million. The same amount ($2.7 million) will also be diverted from the Convention Center/Visitors Bureau. In addition, $5.2 million would be diverted from the Convention Center Expansion/Memorial Auditorium projects over a ten-year period.

Commissioner Burt asked what the impact would be on the Convention Center. Mr. Nishimoto stated that in relation to the expansion project and the Memorial Auditorium, there would not be enough money to move ahead with either one. Passage of this initiative would basically stop both projects.

Another situation being looked at is Measure H, which is on the June ballot. Measure H supports the Memorial Auditorium arena configuration. If Measure H passes, the provision in that initiative calls for the completion of the remodeling by 1995. It does not give an option of delaying or not doing that project. If that measure passes, the City will have to fully fund that project, which means General Fund resources will probably have to be used to complete the project.
