"WHEREAS, the Board is cognizant of the fact that other City Plans have been drafted at considerable expense and submitted without definite steps for eventual realization, and believes that the publication of such a report is secondary in importance to actual accomplishments of planning along the lines of physical improvement of the City; and

"WHEREAS, the Board now believes that sufficient information has been obtained to safely direct an initial step; namely, the employment of a Consultant, whose assistance to the City Planning Board will be invaluable in evolving and carrying out a program of development which will be worthy the Capital City of this State; that such employment will be the most economical method of completely and authoritatively realizing the ideals of the Board as well as the attainment of definite results with greater dispatch,
