Commending Chris Darrow and Sharon Grant

WHEREAS, Chris Darrow and Sharon Grant are to be commended for their humanitarian efforts in assisting Shawn Lewis who had become dehydrated while walking home and was nearly unconscious from a diabetic insulin reaction and was rapidly falling into a hypoglycemic coma; and

WHEREAS, Sharon Grant, a passerby, had already stopped to assist Mr. Lewis when Chris Darrow drove by on the opposite side of the traffic lanes, and noticing the situation used his cell phone to call 911; and

WHEREAS, after administering a glucose test obtained from the vehicle of Sharon Grant it was determined that Mr. Lewis was in a life threatening condition if help did not arrive quickly; and

WHEREAS, Chris dialed 911 a couple more times to relay vital information on Mr. Lewis' condition and obtained the necessary data to relay to responding emergency medical staff all the while reassuring Mr. Lewis and never leaving the scene until after the paramedics arrived; and

WHEREAS, during this same ordeal Chris once again assisted a stranger by calling AAA for Sharon Grant as she had inadvertently locked her keys in her car during all the excitement, and had to get to her daughter's school to give her own daughter her insulin shot.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Joe Serna, Jr., do hereby commend the humanitarian efforts of Chris Darrow and Sharon Grant as demonstrated by their assisting a citizen in need, and do hereby thank them for taking the time to care for others.

ISSUED: This 11th Day of May 1999.
